

ISP205L
Visions of the Universe Laboratory
Fall 2005 Course Schedule for Section 1 (Monday)

Week/Date	Weekly Lab (3:00-4:50 Monday) In Planetarium (3:00-4:50) except as noted.	Homework. SG = SkyGazer Activities from Astronomy Media Workbook . (due by 2PM following Monday)
1. Aug 29	Introduction. The Celestial Sphere. Directions. Star maps.	SG-1: Introducing SkyGazer
2. Sept 5	LABOR DAY	----
3. Sept 12	Motions of stars. Seasonal motions. Path of the Sun (Analemma, etc.). Seasonal heating.	SG-4: Motions of the Sun. SG-5: Ecliptic, Parts 1-3. ****
4. Sept 19	Long-term motions (precession). Gyroscopes, etc.	Study for Sky Quiz.
5. Sept 26	SKY QUIZ	SG-8: Precession and Proper Motion.
6. Oct 3	Moon phases. Predicting them. Why we always see one side. Eclipses.	SG-9: Phases of the Moon
7. Oct 10	Inferior & Superior Planets. Motions of the planets (retrograde, etc.). Models of solar system. Kepler's laws. What defines the best model?	SG-12: The Inferior Planets
8. Oct 17	Parallax as seen in the sky. Outdoors experiment (weather permitting): Measuring parallax.	SG-13: The Superior Planets
9. Oct 24	Scale of the Solar System. How to determine it.	Study for Sky Quiz.
10. Oct 31	SKY QUIZ	SG-14: Observing the Planets
11, Nov 7	Properties of light. Spectroscopy of arc lamps (hands-on lab exercise in PL lobby).	Prepare for computer microlab following week, using material from course website.
12. Nov 14	Spectra of stars (in computer Microlab). GO TO 217 BESSEY HALL.	Prepare for computer microlab following week, using material from course website.
13. Nov 21	HR Diagram. Distance to the Pleiades. The scale of the galaxy. (in computer Microlab). GO TO 217 BESSEY HALL.	Prepare for computer microlab following week, using material from course website.
14. Nov 28	Measuring the Age of the Universe (in computer Microlab). GO TO 217 BESSEY HALL.	----
15. Dec 5	Where the chemical elements came from (Planetarium).	----
NO FINAL EXAM		* means use modified instructions, on Angel answer sheet, for how to start this SG activity.