

What's important to you is the stress on your knees. . . the force, F that results. You can keep that as small as possible by making t as long as possible: you bend your knees.